Deeble Institute for Health Policy Research Scholarships Program

The Deeble Institute for Health Policy Research Scholarships Program aims to strengthen the health services research-policy interface by contributing to an evidence informed workforce and a policy literate academic sector.

Working alongside staff at the peak national health body, the Australian Healthcare and Hospitals Association (AHHA), scholarship recipients will be supported to establish connections with policymakers and practitioners working in their field of research and to produce an Issues Brief that engages health policy leaders in an area of national health policy significance.

Jeff Cheverton Memorial Scholarship

The Jeff Cheverton Memorial Scholarship has been established by the Australian Healthcare and Hospitals Association (AHHA), together with Brisbane North Primary Health Network and North Western Melbourne Primary Health Network, to honour the memory of Jeff Cheverton, who demonstrated excellence in health leadership until his untimely death in March 2017. This scholarship supports scholars to specifically develop an Issues Brief on a topic relevant to primary health, mental health, aged care, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health, or LGBTQI health.

Deeble Summer Research Scholarship

The Deeble Summer Research Scholarship program is an exceptional research opportunity for outstanding PhD candidates and Early Career Researchers with a background in health service research. This scholarship is supported by Hesta, and is designed to provide recipients with a unique opportunity to gain a better understanding of how to make academic research relevant to policymakers and practitioners.

HEAL Scholarship

The vision of the Healthy Environments and Lives (HEAL) Network is to catalyse research, knowledge exchange and translation into policy and practice that will bring measurable improvements to our health, the Australian health system, and the environment. The HEAL Scholarship has been established through sponsorship from the HEAL Network to assist to educate and train emerging research leaders in strategic health policy and advocacy in the area of health and climate.

Eligibility

You must have a demonstrated record of strong academic performance, including excellent writing skills and sound research capability. In general, you will be in the final year of a PhD program (research) or have completed a Masters in Public Policy.

Early career researchers, no more than 5 years post-PhD, are encouraged to apply.

Research proposals eligible for consideration for the Jeff Cheverton Memorial Scholarship must be in one of the following fields:

- Primary health
- Mental health
- Aged care
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health
- LGBTQI health

Research proposals eligible for consideration for the HEAL Scholarship must be in the field of health and climate. Preference will be given to members of the HEAL Network.

What Does the Scholarship Program Offer?

Working alongside staff at the peak national health body, the AHHA, scholars will be supported to establish connections with policymakers and practitioners working in their field of research and to produce an Issues Brief that engages health policy leaders in an area of national significance.

Professional Development

The Deeble Institute for Health Policy Research Scholarship Program offers the opportunity to participate in the broader work of both the Deeble Institute for Health Policy Institute and AHHA, which may include meetings with senior policymakers, health services providers and academics, visits to government departments and Policy Think Tanks.

Supervision and Mentoring

Scholars will be supervised by AHHA senior staff and will receive support from a mentor who will provide guidance and advice during the scholarship.

Expected Outcomes

Scholars are expected to write a health policy Issues brief.

Deeble Summer Research Scholars will write on a topic relevant to health services research.

Jeff Cheverton Memorial Scholars will write specifically on primary health, mental health, aged care, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health, or LGBTQI health.

HEAL Scholars will write on a topic relevant to health and climate.

The Issues Brief will:

- Clearly outline the policy issue under consideration
- Provide a thorough overview of the background to the policy issue and/or overview of the policy context
- Outline some policy options/directions/initiatives

- Be objective (non-partisan) and easy to read
- Be suitable for online publication by the AHHA in a timely manner (must be completed within the calendar year in which the scholarship is undertaken)

Duration of the Scholarships

Each Scholarship will be for a period of 6 weeks and scholars must complete a draft of their briefs within that period. Scholarships are generally taken up in the summer academic break following granting of the award; starting from January each year - this is negotiable.

Location

Scholars will be based in at the AHHA in Canberra for the duration of the Scholarship. Alternative arrangements to work from your home University will be considered.

Stipend

Each scholarship is valued at $2500.

Payment to scholars is made in two amounts – 50% at commencement of scholarship and 50% on completion of the scholarship and publication of the Issues Brief.

Note that if a paper is deemed not suitable for publication, at the discretion of the sponsoring organisations, the scholar may be deemed ineligible for the final payment.

Number of Scholarships available

There will be 3 – 6 scholarships available each year. Final numbers will be at the discretion of the Chief Executive, AHHA.

Deeble Institute for Health Policy Research

The Deeble Institute for Health Policy Research is an initiative of the AHHA. At the Institute, we believe that the best health policies are made when policymakers, practitioners and researchers work together. Our main aim is to build and strengthen the connections between these people and organisations. We do that by undertaking collaborative academic research, doing research commissioned by policy departments and conducting high-quality, independent research synthesis.

Key activities include:

- Partnerships: connecting health policy makers, practitioners, and academics.
- Research: conducting high-quality, independent research synthesis, and policy and practice-based research
- Health Policy Briefs: short, easy to read, objective publications for policymakers that synthesise and interpret the evidence in an area of health policy.
- Scholarships: supporting training and work experience in a health policy knowledge translation organisation.
- Workshops / Think Tanks: Key stakeholder engagement; identifying policy issues and gaps in current knowledge and proposing realistic solutions.

Australian Healthcare and Hospitals Association

The Australian Healthcare and Hospitals Association (AHHA) is the independent peak membership body and advocate for the Australian healthcare system and a national voice for universally accessible, high-quality healthcare in Australia. The AHHA is uniquely positioned to facilitate collaboration between clinicians, academics, policy makers, administrators, and politicians.

Key activities include:

- Maintaining a highly visible policy development program utilising the diverse expertise of members
- Promoting and advancing the implementation of innovative policies which are accepted and well-resourced by governments
- Advocating for and representing members on matters of interest or concern to them
- Maintaining international and national networks of people working in healthcare organisations, creating a stimulating environment for learning through analysis, review, sharing and development of health policy and practice
- Publishing relevant and current information on health industry research, innovations, policies, news and events
- Providing, through partnerships, exclusive training programs for health service professionals
- Operating a consultancy business to support the ongoing provision of high-quality membership products and services

Sponsor Organisations

The Deeble Institute Scholarships Program would not be possible without the support and guidance of sponsor organisations including:

Jeff Cheverton Memorial Scholarship

Deeble Summer Research Scholarship

Healthy Environments and Lives (HEAL) Scholarship

The relationship between the Scholar and the sponsoring organisations will not be one of employer and employee and no employee benefits will arise for the Scholar.

Scholars are required to acknowledge the support of the AHHA, HESTA, the HEAL Network, Brisbane North PHN and North Western Melbourne PHN (as appropriate) in any subsequent publications or in other material resulting from the research.
